

And the brick work at the foundation of one of the pillars, which was left entirely exposed by the caving in of the street, was broken and crumbling at the top.

The police think that the hydrant pipe must have been leaking for several days and thoroughly saturated the ground behind the foundation wall. This, together with the great weight of the piles of brick placed upon the sidewalk, so weakened the old wall that it was bound to give way at the slightest shock.

The street is in a very unsafe condition, and it is feared in other parts of the adjoining excavation wall may give way at any time. The place from which the body of young Kehoe was taken is only a few feet from the line of the wall. He had evidently no time to get out of the way when it fell.

The site of the excavation is owned by Theodore Haymeyer, the Sugar Trust President.

The old buildings which covered the ground were torn down last month, and Mr. Kehoe had the contract for digging the foundations of the new building.

But One of the Martins' Pretty Babes Lies Dead To-Day.

The Two Others Side by Side on a Pillow in Healthful Sleep.

Babies abound in Avenue N., and in hot, sultry weather like this their little lives go out so quickly that the loss of one hardly attracts attention outside the house in which it has been.

But the death of one babe in that street has excited the sympathy and interest of a whole neighborhood to-day. It was one of triplets that had come to a humble home.

Fred Martin, a blue-eyed, frank-faced clock maker with a little gray in his hair, lives in a small family to support, but he was just as happy when three little strangers came knocking at his heart, Wednesday evening, and they found welcome there.

They were round little chaps with bald heads like their papa's, and they brought no baggage. Preparations had been made in anticipation of the arrival of one, and clothing for one had to do for three.

The three weighed a fraction less than fifteen pounds, but each was so many pounds of loveliness to Fred Martin and Mary, his tall little wife.

The first of visitors were two blessed boys and a blue-eyed girl. The first to be announced by Wilhelmina Christman, the "midwife," was christened Charles Walter on the spot, and a bit of white ribbon was tied upon his left wrist, a mode of identification suggested by the case of Jacob and Esau many centuries ago.

The others received the names "Mary" and "Otto," respectively, and it is fair to say that Papa Martin was fully three times as joyous as one new baby would have made him, though he and Mary had had five babies since they wedded, and it was a great task to provide for so many.

AN EVENING WORLD reporter paid his respects to the wan-faced mother this morning, but he found a shadow overshadowing the happiness of the little family in their humble home.

Charles, Walter and Otto, side by side on one pillow, were putting in a fine time in healthful sleep, but in the next room their sister Mary lay in a tiny coffin not eighteen inches long.

Lying was too hard a struggle for her, and she gave it up last night after a battle of only forty-eight hours.

Franklin, a bright little fellow of seven years, peered at his wee little brothers and smiled as he expressed the opinion that they were "awful nice," but when the father led the reporter softly into the room where the tiny coffin sat on a chair the little boy's face took on a sad, sad expression in the extreme, and one big tear stole out of the open blue eyes.

Fred Martin and his family attended Dr.
Hassie's St. Mark's Church, and Baby Mary will be buried to-day in the Lutheran Cemtery.

Business has been very bad of late for the clockmaker, and the wife has hovered close about the door of his little shop, but the loss of this lamb is felt even more keenly than if prosperity attended him, and there was touching pathos in the simple manner in which he gave information to the reporter of the coming of the triplets and the death of Baby Mary.

Gov. Pattison Sustained.

His Man Succeeds Bardsley as Philadelphia's Treasurer.
